Subject: President to Invoke 1807 Insurrection Act

I informed you, sometime back, that the President would be using emergency powers. He did. I also wrote, later, that he would be invoking other emergency powers. It was reported, last week, he will be invoking the 1807 Insurrection Act to counter the massive influx of illegals.

These emergency powers give the Executive Branch of Government power over the Military and National Guard, and exclude the necessity of congressional approval.

Mike Adams is advocating that all well trained armed civilians should offer assistance to police and military who fight left wing terrorists that were triggered by arrests of high profile people, or the Insurrection Act. Parts of the southern border have been protected by such people.

In my most recent fax to you I gave certain profile information about the leaders of left wing terrorist organizations. They are, generally, highly educated from prestigious schools.

There is a spiritual rule that today is called THE LAW OF ATTRACTION.

If people dwell, in their minds, upon the worst case scenarios, they will come into the real world. There is supposed to be an IMMINENT flood in Huerfano County. Preparing for such an event, and doing things to stop it is good. Constant fear, and belief it MUST happen, however, is destructive.

The same is true about possible events in the world, and particularly in Huerfano County.

If we judge others, that which we judge can be brought into our lives because of that judgement. Constant condemnation of people who have been brainwashed by schools or media, or who are stupid, can only lead to self destruction.

If, and when, certain destructive ideas turn into unlawful manifestations, always be willing to stop it. However, people have a right to free speech so long as they are not harming anyone, or inciting others to lawlessness.

The typical behavior and beliefs of those inclined to become left wing terrorists is well known, and has been written of by more than one person.
